BOCA RATON, Fla. (PRWEB) April 14, 2020 -- ALL-TAG, an American manufacturer of RF Labels, and a leading supplier of AM Labels, RF & AM Security Tags, and other loss prevention products, is designated a critical supplier to food and pharmaceutical product manufactures.

The company is committed to remaining fully staffed during the COVID-19 pandemic. ALL-TAG is open and shipping orders of any product to any location around the world.

“We understand that many of our source tagging customers are supplying their goods to various essential grocery and pharmacy retailers, and those goods still need to be tagged,” commented ALL-TAG’s Vice President of Sales, Andy Gilbert.

“We will continue to deliver our RF and AM Labels to these customers in a timely fashion so that they can maintain their shipping schedules of food and pharmacy products.”

“Our leadership team prides itself on the fact that we have not had to conduct any layoffs or furlough any employees.”

The company has implemented plans across the globe, assuring employee safety, and customer support.

All-Tag is closely monitoring the Coronavirus situation (designated COVID-19 by the World Health Organization).

The company is managing operations to limit the impact on customers and employees.

- Monitoring the World Health Organization (WHO), CDC, and credible news websites.
- Maintaining communications with employees and customers
- Working to minimize the spread of an infectious disease if needed, through work from home/social distancing, travel restrictions, increasing more stringent office cleaning

In addition, company employees are following the World Health Organization (WHO) recommended actions for minimizing the potential for infection.
